

PixController update

Those who have been following the action on PixController's web cams know that Lily's cub is a girl and that Dorothy, the peregrine falcon at the Pitt's Cathedral of Learning laid her first egg on Thursday night.

Fans of the bear den cam have named the cub Hope. She is often visible, although seeing a black cub climbing on a sleeping black bear can be tricky! Look for the little white claws extending and contracting to help locate her.

Murrysville resident Bill Powers' company, PixController, Inc., designs camera systems that provide a live feed from remote wild life viewing locations. The Lily bear den cam and two web cams set up in Pittsburgh to watch the falcon nests can be accessed via www.wildearth.tv
